MEDICAL-CHURCH UNION

Commission Suggests Interchange of Teachings to Get at Root of Suffering.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
MILLBROOK, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Dr. Edward S. Cowles of the Park Hospital in New York, a member of the Episcopal Church Commission on the Ministry of Healing, spoke here today before a conference of ministers and laymen on the definite program and the ultimate possibilities of the hospital which the commission proposes to erect for the treatment of human ailments, not only on physical but also along spiritual and psychological lines.

Dr. Cowles declared the need of such an institution was shown by the way in which many thousands of persons joined new cults and took up the various isms that appeared from time to time, persons who had sought aid from physicians that knew little or nothing about psychopathic problems and from clergymen whose "theological" teaching was as incomplete as the medical training in the medical schools.

During the general discussion that followed his address Dr. Cowles proposed that ministers should receive advanced medical training and that physicians should be placed on the faculties of theological seminaries.

Place for Faith Healing.

The conference, although it has no decision in the matter, showed lively and approving interest in Dr. Cowles' description of the proposed hospital. The plan was endorsed by Dr. Austin Flint of Bellevue Hospital, a noted alienist and a communicant of the Millbrook church, who said that the hospital should be conducted along high ethical lines, so that the medical profession would have faith in it and send patients to it. He urged the Episcopal Church not to neglect the opportunity to demonstrate and the other members of the Commission have prepared for it.

Dr. Cowles pointed out that there will be a department where faith healers will be given an opportunity to demonstrate their ability upon patients under the observation of an examining board composed of physicians, psychologists and ministers. The medical and emotional misery that has crippled millions of our people mentally and physically. Recent investigations have shown that in certain instances, such as the galvanometer and the plethysmograph, we have the means of detecting the influence of subconscious and unconscious mental processes on both the mind and the body, hitherto unsuspected.

"The physician interested in this work sees an ocean of morbid thought surrounding him, due to secret worries, excitements, nervous fears, depression, mental conflicts and the like. These sufferers, almost without exception, have appealed to the medical profession for help, only to find themselves plunged into deeper misery and disappointment owing to the physician's lack of sympathy, lack of knowledge, lack of understanding of their particular form of suffering, lack of confidence, lack of definiteness in the medical and emotional misery that has crippled millions of our people mentally and physically. Recent investigations have shown that in certain instances, such as the galvanometer and the plethysmograph, we have the means of detecting the influence of subconscious and unconscious mental processes on both the mind and the body, hitherto unsuspected.

"Treat Morbid Thoughts."

"It is only a function of the hospital. Its chief function is to make an accurate diagnosis of ailments and to treat with accuracy and correct with definiteness the mental and emotional misery that has crippled millions of our people mentally and physically. Recent investigations have shown that in certain instances, such as the galvanometer and the plethysmograph, we have the means of detecting the influence of subconscious and unconscious mental processes on both the mind and the body, hitherto unsuspected.

"The physician interested in this work sees an ocean of morbid thought surrounding him, due to secret worries, excitements, nervous fears, depression, mental conflicts and the like. "What is the consequence of all this? Christian Science, with its scientific, non-scientific, with all its contradictions, has grown up overnight, as it were, because it is the only institute in the world which has set itself up to understand these people. It is a rebuke to the church as well as to the medical profession. These people did not need a theoretical sermon nor any form of science given in a cold, mechanical way, but a heart big and true, patient and sympathetic to understand the meaning of their sufferings, scientifically to understand them. They needed a heart to understand them, to show them their little inconsistencies, to broaden and deepen their religion, to know how to relieve their morbidness, to break their loneliness and to eliminate their self-consciousness.

Speaks of Varied Isms.

"It is not fitting, it is not in keeping with the great historical traditions of the Episcopal Church that it should join with the medical profession for the relief of this great body of suffering humanity? This can be done by having the right sort of hospital, the sort of hospital which is now being organized, where ministers and medical men may work together, may study and understand the whole man.

ALPINE BLIZZARD GIRLS IN SILK STOCKINGS

Two Chums Returning on French Liner Tell How Sudden Norther Trapped Automobile Party in Deep-Piled Snow and Chasseurs Saved Them.

Louise A. Girard and Ida H. Schepflin, Brooklyn chums, who arrived yesterday by the French liner La Savoie, had a rough time in a blizzard, for which they were not dressed, while crossing the Alps on September 14. They were members of a party making a six-day tour in an automobile through the Maritime Alps to Genoa. An unheralded snow blast struck the party near the summit of a 10,000 foot peak. They passed the refuge near the crest and had gone several miles beyond when the snow, piled in immense drifts by a blast of nearly a hundred miles, halted them. They were startled to find later that their car was within two feet of a precipice.

Four chasseurs from the refuge, suspecting that the big car would get into trouble, came alone and piloted the shivering party back to their station at foot. The young women wore low shoes and silk stockings, and the snow was three feet deep in most places and in others where it had drifted was shoulder high.

SAY HUYLER CASHIER GOT $1.05 WITH GUN

Three Knauth Brothers and Jose A. Machado, Jr., Sue Con-fectioners for $100,000.

Four damage suits aggregating $100,000 were filed yesterday in Supreme Court against Huyler's, well known confectioners. The purchase of two frosted chocolates, two frosted coffees and one double chocolate ice cream soda appears as an indirect cause of the litigation. The plaintiffs allege an assault by a Huyler cashier with a loaded automatic pistol over a check for $1.05, of which, they contend, 80 cents had been paid.

The plaintiffs are Felix W. Knauth, Victor W. Knauth, Arnold W. Knauth and Jose A. Machado, Jr. The first three are brothers of Theodore W. Knauth of Knauth, Nechols & Knauth, bankers, 123 Broadway. Machado is the son of the vice-president of the American Bank Note Company. All except Arnold W. Knauth were officers in the A. E. F. Mr. Knauth, a graduate of Columbia, 1912, is a lawyer at 49 Wall street. His younger brothers were graduated from Harvard in 1918. Machado is a Harvard man, 1917. The lawyer for the four is Alford de Ruess, 123 Wall street.

Papers filed in behalf of Felix W. Knauth said that he and the three others and another person, whose name is not mentioned, went into the Huyler store in Broadway, near Fifth street, late in the evening of October 3, 1922, to purchase chocolates. According to the complaint, a check for $1.05 was offered after one of the party had paid a check for 80 cents.

When the cashier started to leave the shop, Mr. Knauth asserts that he offered to pay 25 cents for what he contended was the difference between the check and the amount he was to pay. He refused to accept the explanation, shouted to other employees not to allow Mr. Knauth and his guests to leave, rushed from behind the counter and drew an automatic pistol from his pocket, flourishing it in front of him and other members of the party.

Mr. Knauth said the check for $1.05 was paid, but asks damages for having been "shocked, chagrined, shamed and humiliated."

'FATHER BILL' DALY DENIES WIFE'S CHARGE

Mrs. Daly Asserts He Believed Animals Understood Him.

"Father Bill" Daly, veteran horse trainer, who has found matrimony a much more difficult proposition than horse racing, yesterday denied eccentric conduct attributed to him by Mrs. Daly. She asserted that her husband is incompetent and that a committee should be appointed to take charge of him and his property. Mrs. Daly said that he "suffered hallucinations and believed horses understood what he said."

He denied that he hoped to remarry and raise another family—he has eight children now—and explained that bread thrown by neighbors at their chickens is occasionally used to feed his ponies and fowl.

"Father Bill" was especially indignant that any one should think he had an income of $10,000 a year. His affidavit was filed yesterday in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn.

BANDITS IN BOAT BOARD SHIPS AND BOAT OFFICERS

Hold Up Chief Engineer They Find Awake.

Three armed men went aboard the Tidewater Oil Company's tankers at New York yesterday, and boarded the Hook Bayonne, early yesterday and ransacked the officers' quarters. From the cabin of the Edwards' captain, while the master slept, they stole $270, a gold watch and several suits. Clothing was taken from the quarters of other officers.

John Thiel, chief engineer of the Vedol, was awakened when the bandits entered his quarters. They held him up and robbed him of $42, jewelry and clothing. The three men used a motor launch, later found abandoned.

INDICTED FOR MAIL THEFTS.

John H. Kerney of 81 Cooper street, Brooklyn, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday charged with stealing letters from the mail boxes at the Elk Club in 148 West Forty-third street. He was later released in $1,000 bail. He was arrested ten days ago.

Boatload of German Toys Arrives to Enter the Christmas Market

The first instalment of German toys that will stream into this port from Hamburg until Christmas arrived yesterday in the crowded hold of the Royal Mail liner Orduna. Of the 3,000 cases loaded at Hamburg 325 were left at Southampton for transshipment to South Africa, which, former Chamberlain said, indicated that the Germans are out for the world trade in toys.

Germany's toy industry, the purser added, has been a remarkable recovery and the wizard workers of the Black Forest, including airplanes, airplanes, are busy from dawn till dark. Many memorials of the war are shown in the lists of miniature mechanisms, including airplanes, airplanes, made on the German after plan and

TOLD TO APPEAR TO-DAY

District Attorney's Office Proposes Forfeit of Their $25,000 Bonds.

The trial of Edward M. Fuller and William F. McGee, stock brokers operating under the name of E. M. Fuller & Co., who were indicted for bucketing several months ago, was stayed temporarily yesterday in the Court of General Sessions.

The stay was caused by an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Cohan. A motion for a change of venue is to be argued.

Eugene F. McGee, attorney for the defendants, whose failure was for more than $4,000,000, said because of the attitude of certain New York newspapers it would be impossible for his clients to obtain a fair and impartial trial in New York county. The stay was a surprise to Assistant District Attorney Nelson Olcott and Judge Robert S. Johnston, before whom the trial was to have started yesterday. Mr. Olcott declared the hands of the District Attorney were tied by the order and asked if the defendants were in the courtroom.

Mr. McGee said they were not, and added that he had been told it would be unnecessary for them to appear. Mr. Olcott replied that the District Attorney had information which gave him reasons to feel that they should be produced or their bonds of $25,000 forfeited.

Mr. McGee told Judge Johnston that William F. McGee was in the city and Fuller would arrive to-day from Montana. It was ridiculous, he said, for any one to say that either had fled to South America or anywhere else, and that both were anxious for trial. Judge Johnston ordered that the two defendants be produced. The case will be kept on the trial calendar from day to day until Fuller arrives, should he be unable to appear to-day.

Mr. McGee objected to keeping the trial on the calendar, saying it was a great hardship to have to appear in court daily, and that his clients did not want to be forced to trial prematurely. The order of Justice Cohan stays the trial for ten days automatically unless the defendants waive that right.

Fred Andrews, formerly cashier for E. Dier & Co., bank stock brokers admitted before Referee Seaman Miller yesterday that he and his wife are worth about $100,000 less now than when he was examined, just after the bankruptcy, but refused to tell what wealth they have now is located. He said $50,000 was in Liberty bonds and belonged to his wife, and that it was at a place in Boston which he refused to disclose.

Threatens to Appeal.

He refused consistently throughout the examination to answer any questions about the accusations "got away with murder." Before they could injure him he was rescued by court attendants. Reynolds was charged with having killed Barry with a razor in a rooming house at 217 East 10th street. Assistant District Attorney Voss moved for acquittal because of lack of evidence and Justice Harry E. Lewis suggested that the evidence be transcribed. In his opinion, he said, the policemen who testified may have "had bad memories by accident or design."

CRAIG WINS POINT IN CONTEMPT CASE

Supreme Court Will Review
Order of Judge Mayer.

Comptroller Charles L. Craig won another step yesterday in his fight to nullify the contempt order of Judge Julius Mayer, of the United States court, by which Mr. Craig is under sentence to serve sixty days in Essex County Jail, New Jersey. The victory came in a decision by the United States Supreme Court at Washington to review the order of Judge Mayer. At its last term the Supreme Court denied a similar application.

HELD FOR HAVING EXPLOSIVE.

Anderson Kept Nitro-Glycerine in Room, Detectives Say.
Magistrate Smith in the Harlem Court yesterday held William Anderson, 59 years old, in $10,000 bail for examination Thursday in a charge of illegally storing explosives. Detectives who had trailed him testified that he had an eight ounce bottle of nitro-glycerine in his room at 2455 Second avenue, New Jersey. The victory came in a decision by the United States Supreme Court at Washington to review the order of Judge Mayer. At its last term the Supreme Court denied a similar application.

FAILURE OF ELEVATOR HURTS SEVEN PERSONS

Car Drops From First Floor to Bottom of Shaft.

The operator and six passengers in an elevator in the loft building at 836 Broadway were injured slightly yesterday when the car dropped from the first floor to the foot of the shaft. Rocco Salatiello of 67 East Fourth street, operating elevator, was injured by a car that fell from the first floor to the foot of the shaft. The passengers all were able to return to work.

Cries from the occupants of the car caused persons in the building to turn in an alarm of fire, to which Hook and Ladder Company 2 responded. Services of the firemen were not needed.

Why not likewise men and women, unworn by age and heart-young and fresh, still bearers of the ripened fruit of experience and wisdom, to enrich and bless the world and to make life easier for those who come after them.

PUNG-CHOW

"The Game of a Hundred Intelligences"

3,000 years old
Yet new to us

A game that routes from favor auction bridge, billiards or chess. Never played except by native Chinese until very recent years when a few sets were imported to this country.

The Chinese models are now being reproduced here but, of course, at less expense than the originals.

On the level

"PUNG CHOW," the two words used in the play of the game, means "level contentment." In the polite, figurative language of the Chinese this signifies, "on the level," a game in which you cannot cheat.

It is played with tiles resembling dominoes, which are matched for similarity, for a run, or for sequence. The different suits are given arbitrary values, and the object is to score the highest number points.

The equipment

The set of Pung Chow includes 144 tiles of black and ivory pyralin, stamped in rich Oriental designs in color, four sets of counters of the same composition with markings in matching colors, a pair of dice, a book of instructions, all contained in a case of black fabricoid.

Complete set, $35.
